

Life for All in the COVID-19 Pandemic

Commentary

With the whole world now in lockdown with social distancing and the required wearing of masks, we must take these public health precautions seriously and pray that the SARS-CoV-2 virus and its recent stronger mutations will be overcome.

Many Questions Remain

1. How and when did it arise in China? Companion animal pets were and are not the source.
2. Will widespread vaccination protect most of us?
3. Will current licensed vaccines protect against the newly emerging variants?
4. Why are more people refusing to wear personal protective equipment like face masks and social distancing? People of all ages are at risk, especially the elderly and those with pre-existing illnesses.
5. Why do these antisocial people behave this way when they are putting themselves and those around them at exposure risk, illness and even death?

6. Why do many, even well-educated people, believe that once they have completed COVID-19 vaccinations, they no longer need to wear masks and social distance?
7. Why do some naysayers state that the whole COVID-19 pandemic is a hoax?

Obviously, we either are not being effective educators and/or the world population is less likely to pay attention to social “good” in our “MeToo” focused world. We must act and be together in protecting everyone from this life-threatening issue.
